Teachers Wanted.

A GENTLEMAN, well qualified to teach the Languages, Mathematics, and all the higher branches of an English education, is wanted to take charge of the Bennettsville Male Academy, for the ensuing year.

From the well known healthiness of this Village, the Trustees are decidedly of opinion, that a teacher fully competent to prepare young men for admission into college, would find the situation highly advantageous.

—Also—

A Lady to take charge of the Female Academy at the same place, who is well qualified to teach the usual branches of an English education, or such as are usually taught in Female Seminaries, together with plain and ornamental Needle Work, Painting, Drawing, &c

The Teachers will be elected on the 10th December next. Applications accompanied with testimonials of competency and good moral standing, will be addressed to the Subscriber.

$250 REWARD.

RANAWAY, or stolen from Winnsborough, S. Carolina, on the 28th May, 1832, in the then possession of Wm. Beasley, a family of NEGROES, of the following description, viz: a negro man named Cato, raised by Wm. Wilson, of Sumter District, aged about 28 years, 5 feet 8 inches in height, dark complexion, full face, speaks generally in a low tone of voice, reads well, and may possibly write; a very plausible, polite and artful negro.—Also, his wife Milly, aged about 26 years, about 5 feet 4 inches in height, a very fat, stout woman at that time, has uniformly a pleasant countenance, is an excellent Cook and Seamstress; she was raised by Wm. Mills, of Sumter District. They took with them three children, viz: Carter, the eldest, a bright mulatto boy, aged about 7 years; second child, a girl named Caroline, aged about 4½ years; third, an infant boy when they absconded, named Elias. It is possible that they may have, by this time, another child, being almost two years since they have been absent. I will give the above reward, or $75 each for the Fellow and Wench, and $33 33 for each of the Children, delivered in any gaol in this State. Should they have been stolen, I will give $400 on proof to conviction. There is but little doubt they were assisted in getting away from Winnsborough.

WINDSOR, BERTIE Co. Nov. 1.

Lost Mail, Horse and Gig.—The Northern mail, via Winton, due at this place on Wednesday evening last, has not yet arrived. This will account for the absence of late intelligence in our paper of to-day. A gentleman just from Winton informs us that he saw the driver yesterday morning, who stated that the morning previous he had stopped at a house near the road to warm himself, and whilst he was in the house the horse got loose from where he was tied and went off, or else some person stole him, together with the gig, mail-bag and contents. Diligent search had been made for them in every direction, but no intelligence of either had been obtained up to the time our informant saw the driver.—Herald.

Quick Passage.—A letter mailed at Clark's Store, Martin county, North Carolina, in July, 1830, directed to a merchant at Colerain, in this county, arrived at the latter place in October, 1833. Having been only three years and three months on the way. The distance between the two offices is about 30 or 40 miles.

Definition.—The editor of the Lancaster Journal says 'intemperance is the consumption of the soul.' We mean no kind of pun, when we say it is a consumption of the spirit. Mind and matter all go, and he who embraces the bottle is like the Spartan boy with the stolen "fox"—hugging close that which will eat out his vitals.—U. S. Gaz.

GREAT FIRE AT CONSTANTINOPLE.

Constantinople, Sept. 4.—I am sorry to say that my apprehensions with regard to fires have been verified to an alarming extent. One of the most fearful ever known in this so often devoted city occurred here on Friday last. It is not yet ascertained whether it came from accident or design, but it is remarkable that it broke out in the full day in the Government musket factory, on the Turkish Sabbath, the only day on which the workmen were not in their places. On proceeding to the place I saw that the musket factory had caught fire, and that the flames were spreading with rapidity in consequence of a strong westerly wind, which blew directly up the hill side with a velocity which was inconceivable. As no means can be taken to stop the progress of such calamity prior to the arrival of the Grand Vizier, the two hours which elapsed before that dignitary made his appearance was sufficient to involve one of the finest quarters of Constantinople in destruction, and before 4 o'clock the flames had complete mastery of an immense circuit commencing at the water's edge, extending on the right towards the superb mosque of Sultan Mahomed, on the left to the mosque of Sultan Soleyman, and in the rear to the great aqueduct, in the direction where the fire of last month had stopped.

The houses being all wood, dry as tinder from the summer heat, afforded a ready prey, and it was the most fearful sight I ever witnessed to behold the fire rushing as if in streams over hundreds of roofs, or darting in tongues of flame at every separate building within its reach.

Some persons say that one-fifth of Constantinople, has been destroyed; but if I do not go that length, I am certain that a circuit of 3 miles, comprising 12,000 buildings, and making houseless 50,000 persons, has been devastated. It is now three days since the fire occurred, but the ruins are still smoking, and if a wind again arise, which happily has not been the case, the safety of the rest of Constantinople cannot be depended on.

The damage has altogether fallen upon the Turks, and it is wonderful to see the patience with which they bear it. A person who was at Constantinople during the fury of the fire, assures me that he saw several owners of the burned houses smoking their pipes in the neighboring coffee houses with the most perfect indifference. Their conduct strangely contrasted with about 300 Jews, apprehensive that a quarter in which they had property would be attacked, who screamed and tore their garments.

Railways.—Before the establishment of the Liverpool and Manchester Railway, there were twenty two regular, and about seven occasional extra coaches, between those places, which, in full, could only carry, per day, 688 persons. The Railway, from its commencement, carried 700,000 persons in eighteen months, being an average of 1070 per day.—It has not been stopped for a single day.—There has occurred but one fatal accident on it in eighteen months. The fare by coach was 16s inside, and 6s outside. By railway it is 5s. inside, and 3s 6d outside. The time occupied in making the journey by coach was four hours; by railway it is one hour and three quarters. All the coaches but one have ceased running, and that chiefly for the conveyance of parcels. The mails all travel by the railway, at a saving to government of two-thirds of the expense. The railway coaches are more commodious than others; the travelling is cheaper, safer, and easier.

On the Baltimore and Frederick Rail Road, Steam power is now regularly employed for the conveyance of passengers as far as to the foot of plane No. 1, at Parr's Ridge, a distance of forty miles. For twelve months past, it has almost constantly been used, either for the purposes of travelling or transporting produce; but as the company, until recently, had but one engine, which had heretofore been employed as an experimental one, the travelling—during the repairs or modification of this Engine—was unavoidably frequently suspended. Having now ascertained all requisite information, the Company have taken measures to procure eight additional locomotives to be placed on the road, and will go on to increase this number until the quantity will be equal to the demand for them.

There are now eight hundred wagons in constant use on the road, and as this number is found to be wholly inadequate to the demands of the Company, they have 400 more under construction, which will be completed with all practicable speed.

Increased Facilities for Travelling.—We learn that the Philadelphia and Trenton Railroad is completed from Trenton to Bristol, twelve miles, and that the section between Bristol and Philadelphia will be ready for use early in the spring. The New-Jersey Railroad, from Jersey City through Newark and Elizabethtown to New-Brunswick, is also progressing rapidly, and will, probably, be in use in the course of the ensuing summer. These roads when connected by a permanent track road, for which the timber is now landing at Trenton, as we are informed, which is to be laid on the turnpike between New-Brunswick and Trenton, to form the tracks, upon which locomotive engines or steam carriages may be used, will add another easy mode of travelling between the rival cities.—Rail Road Journal.

Fatal Accident on the Camden and Amboy Rail Road.—Yesterday, as the train of cars, proceeding from this city, drawn by the locomotive, approached Whitestown, travelling at a rapid rate, the fore axletree of one of them broke, and the consequence was, that the car next behind was jerked from the rails instantly, and overturned. One of the passengers, Mr. J. C. Stedman, of Raleigh, (N. C.) who had his head out of the window, was killed on the spot, the top of the car just catching his neck and breaking it. One other gentleman from Pennsylvania was very dangerously, and five others, including a lady and child, were very seriously, wounded. There were twenty-four passengers in the car at the time. The overturned car did not become detached from the train, and was therefore unavoidably dragged some distance, though the engineer was very prompt in stopping the locomotive. The passengers in the car of which the axle-tree broke, received no injury. Among them we hear were J. Q. Adams, and Mr. D. B. Ogden, of this city.

The accident can only be accounted for, it is presumed, by some flaw in the iron which examination could not detect; as we know the greatest and most constant vigilance is exercised in inspecting, as well as constructing, the cars on this route.

New York American.

John C. Stedman, Esq. whose existence has been so suddenly and shockingly cut off, by the above accident, was a native of Chatham county, in North Carolina, but had, from his youth, been a resident of Raleigh, where he had for several years carried on an extensive business as a Jeweller and Silversmith. He was also an able and active Magistrate of the County of Wake, Clerk of the Superior Court, and an enterprising and useful citizen, taking great interest in whatever had a tendency to improve the Seat of Government, or the State at large. His untimely death will indeed be long lamented by his family, and numerous relatives, and he will be deeply regretted by all who knew him, as an upright, kind, and worthy citizen.—National Intell.

Two of the other unfortunate men who were seriously injured by the railroad accident on Friday last have since died.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 1.

Distressing.—It is with feelings of the deepest regret, we lay before our readers the following distressing news, politely furnished us by the Clerk of the steam boat Black Hawk, arrived here this morning, about half past 4 o'clock.

Extract from the Log Book of Steam Boat Black Hawk, P S. Hartshorne, Master.

OCTOBER 29, 5 P. M.—At Foot of 98 discovered the wreck of Steam Boat New Brunswick, came to and took on board one of her crew, from whom we learnt that she took fire the day before, at 4 P. M. and was entirely destroyed—no lives lost, but that none of the cargo was saved.

OCT. 31.—Another, and more distressing.—Came up to the wreck of the Steam Boat St. Martin, two miles above Donaldsonville, rounded too, and received on board those that were saved.

The St. Martin, was from Bayou Sarah, and had about 500 bales cotton and 90 hhds. sugar; she was discovered to be on fire about 12 o'clock this day, and melancholy to relate about 40 persons were lost—by fire and water. Of the officers and crew missing are the captain, clerk, 2d mate, 2d steward, cabin boy; chambermaid, 2 cooks, bar keeper, 4 sailors and 5 fireman: Several passengers were lost, among the number Capt. Sengstack, N. Moss, Esq. of New-Orleans, and servant, Mr. Whiting, of Franklin, Mr. Easton and servant, of Opelousas, Mr. Alfen, Mrs. Willis, of Bayou Sarah; a Lady name unknown and 3 servants—Mr. J. F. Miller, of New-Orleans, was badly burnt—several passengers say that she had on board, about fifty thousand dollars, belonging to some of the Banks in New-Orleans, which is lost.

JOHN W. OWENS, Clerk.

The New Orleans Bulletin of the 2d inst. gives the following additional particulars respecting the loss of the steam boat New Brunswick.

This sad disaster occurred from a parcel of moss taking fire, which was almost instantly in flames and people in confusion.

The moment the alarm was given, there was a general rush to get into the small boat, which almost instantly sunk, and all means of escape cut off. Mr. John F. Miller and Mr. Merimond of this place, with several other gentlemen, swam ashore. One gentlemen saved himself and lady, by getting upon a bale of cotton and floating down the river until taken off by a person from the shore. There were 80 persons on board, crew and passengers.

From a passenger we learn, that the scene was heart rending to the extreme. In fact he was, when we saw him, unable to state particulars. We hope to be able by our next publication, to give the names of the passengers that were lost.

That so many should perish in open day within a few rods of the shore, surprised us. The cause was, that on the cry of fire, Captain thoughtlessly rang bell to stop the engine, when the boat had headway enough to run to the bank and save all. Fatal order! for, when it was too late, and the tiller rope burnt, she could not proceed, but moved round and round. The sequel is but too well known.

The steamer Thomas Yeatman, bound to New Orleans, burst her boilers a few miles above Memphis, and killed the Engineer and six slaves, (who were on board as passengers,) and severely scalded several other persons.

The regular publication of the Moderator, a McLean paper at Washington, has commenced. It meets a liberal support.

FROM THE NEW YORK DAILY ADVERTISER.

WASHINGTON, 2d November, 1833.

To my old friend, Mr. Dwight, of the New York Daily Advertiser.

The Congressmen are jest beginnin to arrive here, and I suppose in a short time we shall have them here as thick as huckleberries, and the Gineral is brushin round now, and says the Message must be finished and printed off hand, and we are all as busy as bees in gittin it dove tailed together; and after next week, the Gineral says, there can't be any more alterations. It is the first message I ever had any hand in; and tho' I say it, I guess you will say it is about as complete a thing as ever was sent express any where.

I have been to work on it ever since we was at the Rip Raps; and tho' it has been sometimes all pulled to bits, to git in some notions we didn't think on, yet it will look pritty slick, I tell you, when it's done; and we will lay on paint enuf to kiver up all the cracks and seams.

We shall give a pritty good lick at the Bank, and wont leave as much on't standing as would make a good sized oven. It is curius now to see how easy it is to build up, or nock all to bits, any thing on paper. Now jest see about the Bank.—There it stands in Chesnut street, with its hundred cord of specie, and its cart load of books; and its branches here and there, all busy, and full of clarks, and directors, and folks in Europe, and all about creation dealin with it; and the brokers in Wall street all busy about it; and Biddle's bills goin about, and most folks thinkin they are better than hard dollars; and all the old men and women holdin the stock, supposin it will go up agin as high as they paid for it; and I, and the Gineral and Amos Kindle, and Mr. Van Buren, talkin over it; and one line in the Message nocks it all into kindlin wood. For you see when "The Government" says a thing must be jest so! there is no help for it. We can't stand to chat about trifles. The Gineral smashed three pipes the last time we talked about it. "Biddle and the Bank must be smashed," says he, "Major;"—and so smash they go, Congress or no Congress.

The next thing was the Ingins Here the Gineral is at home: and I don't pretend to say nothing, for I never did like an Ingin, and never can. The Cherokees give us a good deal of trouble in Georgia last year; but the Gineral took sides with Georgia, because he had a good many friends there, and Mr. Van Buren had too; for that State was the only one that nominated him Vice President a spell ago; and if he had got in there, and Mr. Crawford President, I and the Gineral would never been hearn on arterwards. But no matter—the Gineral says he did'nt make that treaty with the Cherokees—and it was made so long ago, he has enymost forgot it; and treaties oughtent to last forever. But this treaty with the Creeks in Alabama he did make, and he knows all about it; and he means to stand by it, and turn all the squatters off the land in Alabama, jest as they wanted him to do in Georgia, but he would'nt. There is trouble enuf about it, I tell you; and you don't know nothin about it in York. But the Gineral is tickled to death about it; and as soon as he saw the Proclamation of the Governor of Alabama, you never see a critter so pruced up as the Gineral was. Major, says he, by the eternal, we shall have another Nullification this Congress, arter all. Yu need'nt say much about it, says he, in the Message—we'll keep that for a Proclamation. Well, says I Gineral, you are a master hand at gittin into trouble. But, says he, Major, aint I a master one at gittin out of one, says he?

We've got an old trunk up Chamber, full of troubles, old Laws, and Treaties, and Contracts, and State Claims; and whenever we want any powder, all we've got to do is to open that, and snook among old papers, and get up a row in no time. The Gineral likes this a leetle better than I do—for the most of the labor falls on me; and the only way I can get rid of it is to make our folks down stairs do it, if I see it gives any of em a boost with his party—for I don't care nothin about any thing here but the Gineral; and if I can get him threw this Congress, its pretty much all I care about, and he too; for after that, I'm goin with him to the Hermitage, for I expect by that time there wo'nt be much more left of us than our beards and shoe strings. Your friend,

J. DOWNING, Major
Downingville Militia, 2d Brigade.

FROM THE NEW YORK COMMERCIAL ADVERTISER.

Rumors of rather an unpleasant nature, have reached this city respecting the condition of the money market in Philadelphia. The local banks find it difficult to pay the balances due the Bank of the United States. And even one of the new favorites of "the Government"—notwithstanding that it has been constituted one of the keepers of the public treasure, found it inconvenient to pay its debts a day or two since, and the Government itself was obliged to step forward to its relief. The circumstances were these: The Girard Bank owed the United States Bank a balance of two hundred thousand dollars, for which payment was requested. The Girard Bank prayed for delay, but the United States Bank thought the debt had been long enough due, and declined the request. In this dilemma not being able to meet its engagements, the local Bank had recourse to a draft from the Treasury Department of 500,000 dollars—which it seems had been prepared and procured for the emergency—of course leaving a balance in its own favor of three hundred thousand dollars—which the Mother Bank paid. The fact here to be noted is this: By an illegal removal of the deposites, "the Government" already finds itself compelled to resort to another illegal act to sustain the credit of its new deposite banks. So that the public money is now "being" used—not for the legitimate purposes of the Government—not in payment of appropriations by Congress—but to enable the favorite local Banks to meet their engagements! Congress will have a "searching operation" to perform.

The History of the Proceedings of the Hartford Convention, by the editor of the New York Daily Advertiser, is announced in that paper as being now in press, and to be published early in December.

We copied some weeks ago from a Northern paper a paragraph stating that the Grand Lodge of Vermont had dissolved the Charters of all the Masonic Lodges in that State, and recommended the sale of their furniture, &c. We perceive by the Painesville (Ohio) Telegraph, that this statement was essentially incorrect. The Grand Lodge, it appears, refused, by a vote of 79 to 41, to dissolve the Charters; but offered to receive those of such Lodges as might choose to surrender them.

We learn that instructions were received yesterday, by the Collector of this port, to remove the deposits of the United States from the U. S. Branch to the Arcade Bank.

FROM THE MAYSVILLE (KY.) EAGLE.

The Secretary of the Treasury.—The following letter from William J. Duane, Esq., late Secretary of the Treasury, to a gentleman of Mason County, has been handed to us for publication:

Philadelphia, October 11, 1833.

DEAR SIR: I have just now received your letter of the 10th inst., expressing your approbation of my course as Secretary of the Treasury. I have always been, and am, opposed to the U. S. Bank, and all such aristocratic monopolies; but, I considered the removal of the deposites, unnecessary, unwise, vindictive, arbitrary, and unjust. I believed that the law gave to the Secretary of the Treasury, and not to the President, discretion on the question; and I would not act to oblige the President, or any body else, when I thought it improper to do so. I never asked office—I accepted it reluctantly, and was removed for an honest discharge of my duty. If to keep office and $6,000 a year, I had given up my judgment, I should have brought shame upon the gray hairs of my father and upon my numerous children: so that I am content to return to humble life with a tranquil mind.

With kind wishes, I am, very respectfully yours,
W. J. DUANE.

The Third Term.—The Pennsylvanian has the following:

"We state on the most unquestionable authority, that the annunciation made by the American Sentinel of this city, that General Jackson, under contingencies, will consent to run for the Presidency a third term, is entirely gratuitous—contrary to the settled purpose of that distinguished patriot—offensive to his principles and his feelings, and unwarranted by any act or declaration now or heretofore emanating from him."

The editor of the Hagerstown Free Press declares himself in favour of John McLean of Ohio, for the next Presidency, a man whom he believes will be able to concentrate a greater force than any other man in the nation.

Mr. Adams, (Ex-President of the United States) one of the Representatives in Congress from the State of Massachusetts, and Mr. Wilde, one of the Representatives from Georgia, and Mr. Duncan, of Illinois, have already arrived in this city, to attend the opening of the now approaching Session.

National Intelligencer.

An incident occurred in the Legislature of Georgia on the 5th instant, which marked the sense of that body with regard to Nullification, in the outset of their proceedings. Mr. Cooper, an adherent of Nullification, moved in the House of Representatives, that the preamble of the minutes of the proceedings which stated that the House met agreeably to law, on the 4th of November, 1833, and in the 50th year of the independence and sovereignty of the United States, should be amended by striking out the word sovereignty. This motion of Mr. Cooper was opposed on the ground, simply, that it had been uniformly the practice so to designate the United States. The motion of Mr. Cooper was lost, 67 votes for striking out, and 106 against. Mr. Cooper then moved to add, after the words sovereignty of the United States, the word respectively. This motion was also lost, 78 voting for, and 97 against it. The Union majority in the House is safely put down at 19.—Charleston Patriot.

We presume a proper application to "the fortuneteller" would solve the mystery of the annexed paragraph from the Courier and Enquirer of this morning:

Mysterious.—A rumor having got abroad that a large amount of money had been found in the neighborhood of the Eighth Avenue by a couple of colored men, one of the police officers proceeded a few days since to inquire into the truth of the matter; from which the following has been elicited:—While digging in a pit in June last for sand, they accidentally came across a quantity of bank bills, carefully secured in a succession of wrappers, and presumed to amount to about $2000; although of this fact the men are ignorant, being unable to read or write. They kept the fact of finding the money to themselves until about a fortnight since, when they consulted, as they say, a fortune-teller in relation to it, who informed them that the right owner would come in the course of a day or two and claim it. This prediction of the fortune-teller was verified the following morning, by a claimant appearing, to whom it was readily given up by the colored men, upon receiving $100 each as a reward for the finding. Who the claimant was has not been ascertained; nor in fact, has any thing been elicited beyond what we have above stated.

Advantages of Railroads.—The communication between this city and Philadelphia has been greatly improved within a few years. By the Camden and Amboy Rail road, since locomotive engines were put on, it is no difficult matter to leave Philadelphia after breakfast, and dine in New York at 3 P. M. On Thursday last the distance was performed in 6 hours 35 minutes. It will be no uncommon thing next year, for New Yorkers to visit Philadelphia, and return the same day.—Ib.

Flatbush Property.—Several acres of woodland at Valley Grove, three miles from Brooklyn, adjoining the turnpike, were lately sold by G. L. Martense, at five hundred dollars per acre. Two acres owned by Mr. M. Clarkson, in the same neighborhood, three and a half miles from the ferry, sold for one thousand dollars per acre.

Brooklyn Star.

A gentleman of great notoriety, and who once possessed great wealth, is now, and has been for four months, confined in our city jail upon a debt of $80,000, and depends upon charity for his subsistence. A part of the time, his only subsistence has been the daily quart of soup furnished by the Humane Society. It is a coincidence of some interest, that his creditor, who is a man of still greater notoriety, is confined upon sundry great debts in the next room of the same prison.—N. Y. Jour. of Commerce.

Bold Robbery.—The Mechanics' Bank of this city was yesterday entered and robbed. It being Sunday, the watchman was engaged at his devotions, when the villians, improving his absence, quietly entered, by means of false keys. They attempted to enter the vaults, but without success; and were forced to content themselves with four thousand dollars in specie, which laid upon the floor in the banking room. They effected their escape without being discovered; and have so far the start of the officers of justice, that their apprehension is more than doubtful.—Philadelphia Intelligencer.

From the Baltimore Gazette.

The editor of the Fredericksburg Arena approves of the project of an Editorial Convention, and thinks that Baltimore would be the most convenient place for its meeting. He suggests one difficulty, however, which did not occur to us before, and which deserves serious consideration. "What will become of the public if two or three hundred of its faithful sentinels leave their posts, even for a brief season?" The absence of so many shining lights would convert the country generally into a dark wilderness—while their congregation in Baltimore, if they should not eclipse one another, might blind our fellow-townsmen, and possibly set fire to the Chesapeake. We should suffer here, from too much light, while the rest of the Nation were stumbling and tumbling about for the want of it.

Boston.—We have noticed one great improvement recently made in Boston—Commercial wharf, at an outlay of $450,000—but this seems a small thing compared with others which have been accomplished, or are about to be done!

There is the Lowell rail road—the Worcester rail road—and the Providence rail road. The South Cove Corporation has stayed the waves of the ocean, by the extension of wharves now covered with granite warehouses. White's Farm, in Roxbury, is "being" covered with stately edifices. The commanding eminence called East Boston, has been divided into building lots intended for summer residences—an extensive wharf (to be 310 feet wide and 1,000 long) is in progress, and a marine rail-way, sugar refinery, &c. are to be erected, and trees planted. The streets are graded, and an hotel is building, &c. East Boston is on an island, and commands an entire view of the harbor and surrounding country, and, by a steamboat, may be reached in four minutes from the city proper. Independent of private dwellings and structures, there are five companies which are expected to disburse 480,000 dollars on this island. South Boston is a new, but important part of the city, already.

New York, Nov. 10.

About 10 o'clock this morning a fire was discovered in the lower hall of Holt's spacious hotel. The floor was taken up. It was laid on stone, which was found from the fire below, to be nearly red hot. No material damage was sustained: but if it had happened in the night, from the great number of lodgers in the house, some lives would probably have been lost.

Law of Patent.—Yesterday afternoon, an important case, which has occupied a week, was decided in the Circuit Court of the United States for this District,—John Ames, of Springfield, against Charles Howard and Wells Lauthrop, of South Hadley. The action was brought for the infringement of a patent right, and damages were claimed for the unlawful use of two of his patent Cylinder machines for making paper, from October 26, 1832, to April 9, 1833. The defence rested on the alleged invalidity of the patent for various causes. A crowd of witnesses were examined during four days of last week, on behalf of either party. Counsel for the plantiff, W. Bliss, of Springfield, and B. Rand of this city; and Geo. Bliss, of Springfield, and R. Fletcher, of this city, for the defendants. The jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff for $412 50, which being tripled as the law requires, is $1237 50, damages. It is stated that the result of this trial is of very great importance to the paper manufacturers; about 500 of the machines being in use by them, who will each be liable for damages, in an amount of nearly half a million of dollars.

The defendants, we understand, have decided on having it go to the Supreme Court of the U. States, and Daniel Webster has been retained by the plaintiff.

Another Cotton Manufactory in the City of Richmond.

Mr. P. J. Chevallie gave public notice the day before yesterday, (says the Richmond Whig of Saturday evening) that he would on that day open a subscription for a thousand shares of stock of $100 each, to erect a Cotton Manufactory on his property near the immense Flour Mill he is now building at the foot of the basin, in the centre of the city.—The first day about two-thirds of the amount were subscribed, and the balance was subscribed yesterday, by men of business, good men and true.

The promptness with which this stock was taken, is a sure indication, that the unsurpassed advantages of Richmond as a manufacturing city, are getting to be duly appreciated.

Fayetteville, Nov. 15, 1833.

At a meeting of the citizens of the County of Cumberland and Town of Fayetteville, held at the Court House this day, the following resolutions were offered and adopted, viz:—

Resolved, As the sense of this meeting, that the interests of the State require the adoption by our Legislature of an enlarged system of Internal Improvement.

Resolved, That we approve the objects for which the Internal Improvement Convention is to assemble in Raleigh on the fourth Monday in this month, and that we will send delegates to the same.

Resolved, That we will elect three delegates to represent the county, and one to represent the town.

On proceeding to ballot, the following gentlemen were chosen as delegates, viz: the Hon. Robert Strange, Louis D. Henry, Edward L. Winslow, and L. Bethune, Esqrs. (From the Minutes.)

JAMES SEAWELL, Chairman.

R. McINTYRE, Secretary.

The Legislature of this State assembled yesterday. We shall probably hear by to-day's mail, in time for the greater part of our impression, the result of the ballotings for Speakers, &c.

We look with great interest for the proceedings of this session. For the first time within our knowledge, the people have called loudly upon their servants, "to do something for the State," and it is hoped that the call, proceeding as it does, from the mountains to the seaboard, will not be disregarded.

The Phenomenon.—The wonderful meteoric phenomenon which we, in common with many others, witnessed with so much delight, mingled with awe, on Wednesday morning last, has been so well described by other papers, that we adopt their accounts in preference to any which we could give. The following, from the Newbern Spectator, shows that it is not an unprecedented occurrence:

FROM THE NEWBERN SPECTATOR.

Meteoric Shower.—On Wednesday morning, between three o'clock and daylight, this singular and sublime phenomenon was witnessed in this place by many of our citizens. The whole atmosphere was filled with luminous particles, resembling stars in brilliancy, and falling, for an hour or more, in great profusion. The general tendency was downward, but we are informed that at times the appearance was splendidly irregular, many meteors shooting boldly across the common course, and diverging in various directions. This circumstance is most remarkable. Luminous showers have been known to fall in different parts of the world, but we do not read of any in which this divergence from the common centre of gravity was noted as a peculiarity, and this fact inclines us to believe that the phenomenon comes more properly under the head of what has usually been called "shooting stars." Besides, all showers of this kind which we find recorded, left tangible evidences of their fall on the surface of the earth, in the form of coloured dust, or in particles of larger dimensions. In this case, nothing of the kind has been observed. On Wednesday we made careful search in such places as the fall had appeared most copious, especially on the white horizontal tomb-stones in the grave-yard, where it apparently fell as plentifully as in any other place, but without discovering any thing unusual. On Tuesday night the weather was unusually warm for the season, Farenheit's thermometer standing at 70 at 8 o'clock, but during the night, and probably about the commencement of the phenomenon, it fell 25 degrees.

As early as the year 472, in the month of November too, a phenomenon of this kind took place near Constantinople, when, as Theophanes and others relate, "the sky appeared to be on fire." A black dust was deposited. A fall, exactly similar, took place in Canada, between the 3d and 4th of July, 1814, and another at Montreal, in November, 1819. In 1810, "inflamed substances" fell into and around lake Van, in Armenia, which stained the water of a blood colour, and cleft the earth in various places. On the 5th of September, 1819, a like phenomenon was seen in Moravia; and history furnishes many more. In all these cases a deposite was left, in most instances so plentiful as to admit of chemical analyzation. Since the above was written we met with the following account of a phenomenon which was seen in Cumana, on the 12*th of November*, 1799, with which, on various accounts, we are inclined to class that of Wednesday, though some of the accounts which we have heard do not authorise this classification.

"On the 12th of November, 1799, there was seen a very remarkable exhibition of shooting stars, at Cumana, in South America, and over most of the West India Islands. The following account of it is from the pen of a gentleman who witnessed it. He says, 'I was called up about three o'clock in the morning, to see the shooting of stars, as it is called. The phenomenon was grand and awful. The whole heavens appeared as if illuminated with sky rockets, which disappeared only by the light of the sun after day-break. These meteors appeared as numerous as the stars, flying in all possible directions except from the earth, towards which they all inclined more or less, and some of them descended perpendicularly, over the vessel we were in, so that I was in constant expectation of their falling on us.'"

The Charleston Courier says,

"We have been informed by Capt. Jackson, of the Revenue Cutter Jackson, who was at sea that night, at the distance of 9 miles from land, that the Heavens were illuminated with the meteors during nearly the whole night, as far as the eye could reach, in every direction; presenting a spectacle of uncommon magnificence and sublimity, attended with frequent explosions resembling the discharge of small arms. We learn also that a meteor of extraordinary size was observed at sea to course the Heavens for a great length of time, and then explode with the noise of a cannon."

A Correspondent of the Richmond Jeffersonian thus accounts for the Phenomenon:

"My philosophy accounts for this phenonemon thus:—The recent frosts killed the vegetation, which on the return of the present warm weather, decomposed so rapidly as to surcharge the air with its miasmata. Electricity, Nature's agent to purify the air, was brought into action—and its operation was the phenonemon witnessed."

During about an hour that we were a witness of the wonderful scene, there was no explosion, and no meteor moved in any other than a downward direction. No explosion is mentioned in any of the accounts from N. York to Charleston, except in those of the latter city. In all other respects, the descriptions do not vary materially. It is perhaps needless to add, that great terror was exhibited among the ignorant, especially blacks, who imagined that the end of the world, and the day of judgment were at hand.

A writer in the Newbern Spectator thus beautifully moralizes on the subject:

"After having enjoyed for some considerable time this magnificent scene, I fell into a peculiar train of thought. I saw in the Heavens a happy illustration of the world of mankind. Some of these shooting stars were scarcely perceptible, and consequently their path-way could with difficulty be marked by the eye; others started with great brilliancy, and gradually sunk away into obscurity; and others again started in comparative obscurity, soon exhibited a magnificent trail, and disappeared in a halo of glory. Thus, I thought, it is with men. Some pass through life without shedding around them one ray of intellectual or moral or religious light; their whole path-way is one of obscurity, and in darkness they disappear: others start with brilliancy, but in their progress they become more and more obscure, until at last their course is no longer to be traced, and unknown they expire: others again pass on gathering strength and scattering light around them as they advance, and leave the world amidst

"An unclouded blaze of living light."

The contemplation of this morning's scene illustrated another truth. There are powers of intellect and sources of feeling reposing in man, of which he is perfectly unconscious; and these will continue to sleep in the unexplored recesses of his nature, until some powerful object shall call them forth. Many a man has wondered at the sudden springing into life of the new feelings of his bosom, while contemplating the sublime in nature or the beautiful in art. The phenomenon of this morning called into activity admiration that reached the sublimity of the scene, and produced emotion that filled the bosom with the richest enjoyment.

There is a force of thought and a power of feeling connected with the spirit of man which the world of spirits alone will be found adequate to exhaust; and when man shall have entered the world beyond the grave, he will find that he is in possession of powers adequate to the admiration of the grandeur of God, and of feelings capable of receiving the enjoyments of Heaven.

Clerks of Courts.—We have heard of several instances in which the constitutionality of the law of our last Legislature vesting the right of electing Clerks in the people, has been called in question. And we believe the decision has uniformly been, that the law is unconstitutional. In our last, we copied a case reported for the Greensborough Patriot. In the Rutherford Spectator we find another, in which Judge Norwood decided, at Lincoln Superior Court, that Lawson Henderson, the incumbent, was entitled to retain his office, though the people had elected J. D. Hoke. We understand that Judge Strange has made a similar decision, in the course of his present circuit.

Mr. Gaston.—This distinguished citizen of North Carolina was one of the Guests at a dinner given to Com. Chauncey, a few days ago, in New York. Among the incidents, as detailed in the American, we are glad to find the following:

"The regular toasts being completed, the President, in reference to a distinguished guest from North Carolina, a State of little pretension, but of approved fidelity, offered a sentiment, into the spirit of which those who had watched with solicitude the proceedings of a neighboring State, would, he was sure, fully enter. It was to this effect—for, not having a copy of it, we give it from memory:

"The State of North Carolina, and those of her sons who prefer to sleep with Rip Van Winkle, rather than to wake to disunion.

"Mr. Gaston's reply to this compliment, which was enthusiastically joined in by the company, was one of the happiest we ever heard on such an occasion. Evidently taken by surprise, and, as he said himself, unused in his plain State to the practice of dinner-speeches, which now for the first time he was about to essay, he seemed to us, and to others of better judgment, to say in the best manner the most gratifying things. We listened with too much delight to be able to take notes; and will not venture, by an imperfect sketch from recollection, to impart any idea of what was so good in itself. Mr. Gaston offered, in conclusion, this toast:

"The Commercial Metropolis of the U. States. What American can view its prosperity but with a feeling of pride; or remember its illustrious dead, but with sentiments of veneration, or partake of the hospitality of its citizens, without grateful sensibility?

The mail from Augusta to Charleston has been carried, for some time past, upon the rail-road. By the Charleston papers, we notice that it has been transferred again to stages, in consequence, we presume, of irregularity occasioned by accidents.

The Wilmington Press lately proposed that the Editors of newspapers in this State should adopt, either in meeting held for that purpose, or by correspondence, some uniform plan of dealing with delinquent subscribers. The proposition met with but little encouragement, of which the Editor complains in his last paper. We were among those who did not favor the idea, simply because we thought it impracticable.—The Editor must surely in the course of his long experience, have discovered that no uniform mode can be adopted applicable even to his own list of Subscribers. How then can he expect that any particular plan will suit the cases which may arise in all the various establishments in the State? It is too true, that Editors are subject to many losses, and some impositions, in consequence of their subscribers being scattered over a wide extent of country; but how is this state of things to be remedied? Shall we pledge ourselves to take no subscriber who does not pay in advance, and to strike off the name of every one at the expiration of the time for which he has paid? Any editor of a newspaper in North Carolina who should do this, would soon find himself without subscribers. There are many subscribers to every paper who are ready to pay whenever called upon, but our experience has shown, that it would be too much to expect them to come forward precisely at the termination of every year and pay up for another. We know of no general rule which could be adopted by a Convention of Editors to which we would be willing to become bound.

We will add, in the hope that it may benefit the craft, as well as subscribers, that we have found very great advantage from fixing the terms of this paper as they have existed for the last eight years. Very many of our subscribers pay regularly in advance, because an inducement is held out to them to do so. We would recommend this rule to our friend of the Press, as a part of the plan which he avows his determination to adopt. It will, in part, at least, remedy the grievance of which he complains, and may be adopted without a Convention of Editors.

By the way, what has become of the motto adopted by the Editor of the Press when he first established that paper: "The People can do no wrong?" We have carefully examined his columns and cannot find it. Has he found that some of the people can do wrong? that they have subscribed to his paper, and not paid for it? It was a judicious step to omit it; for the longer he continues his labours, the more reason he will find for saying, that the people can do wrong.

The Cotton Crop.—The belief is very general that the present year's Cotton Crop will prove to be a very large one; and upon the fact whether it is so or not, will depend, the ultimate value of the article in the market. Many persons, however, declare, that there is every prospect of a short crop, and state, in confirmation of their belief, that there never was a season known, in which Cotton opened, or was carried to market, so early as in this. We conversed a few days ago, with an intelligent planter from an adjoining district in South Carolina, who informed us, that the fields in his neighborhood were almost literally bare, and that from several gins which he had visited, nearly every bale of Cotton had been carried to market.—The following article is confirmatory of his statement, though relating to a different section of the country:

FROM THE AUGUSTA CHRONICLE.

THE COTTON CROP.

Mr. Pemberton:—There are many speculations as to the extent of the crop of Cotton, now picked out. I have thought the annexed extract of a letter I received today, from a highly respectable planter, would be interesting to the dealers in the article:

Morgan County, 29th Oct., 1833.

"I send you eight bales of Cotton, which you will please sell, and pass the proceeds to my credit. This is the last of my crop, making in all thirty-nine bags."

Since I have been in business, I never before have heard of a planter having his Crop out, and ready for market, by the 1st of November.—From this it is clear that the frost for some days before the 29th Oct. had entirely destroyed the weed; and that those who have so confidently stated, that there is as much Cotton made as can be picked, are much mistaken. As this extract may be questioned by some, if denied, you can give my name, and I will produce the letter.

A FACTOR.

We find also the following as a Communication in the Charleston Mercury:

"I have been told that the reason why Cotton has fallen in Europe, has been in consequence of letters written from the North, stating that the crops this year would be immensely great. The apprehension of a glutted market has kept back speculators. This is a regular Yankee trick to keep down the prices of the article.

The cotton crops (says the New Orleans Argus of the 2nd inst.) from all accounts will fall far short of the anticipations entertained at the commencement of the season. The Standard is of opinion they will be reduced from 10 to 75 per cent. in Mississippi. The frosts of the 21st and 22nd ult. burnt up the greater part of the late boles.

The Sugar and Cotton Crop of Louisiana. The New Orleans Mercantile Advertiser of the 1st inst. says, "the early frosts of last week, have done much damage to the cane, in many places so much, that half the quantity of sugar which was calculated on before the frosts came, will not be made. On Mr. Shepherd's estate alone, it is calculated that the frost has caused a loss of three hundred hogsheads. Other plantations have sustained little or no damage, particularly in the vicinity of the city where the fogs from the lakes, united with that of the river, had entirely protected the cane. The extreme dry weather, although unfavorable to the general health of the country, is very favorable to planters under existing circumstances. There is much well founded apprehension as to next year's crop, as there is very little cane left, which will answer for seed. The injury to the cotton crops is not so considerable; the greater part of the crops having got out of the way of frost, or at least the damage being only partial."

Vindication of North Carolina from the aspersions of Mr. Jefferson.—We learn from Mr. Jones, the author of the proposed Vindication, that it will shortly appear—but that it has so far swelled beyond the limits which he originally prescribed, that it will be out of his power to present it to Subscribers at the price prefixed to the Subscription paper. He writes us, that the first part of his book—the history of the State from the year '75 to the 4th of July '76—comprises too interesting a period of our history to be lightly examined. The downfall of the Royal Government, and the establishment of the independence of the State, are the two great events of our annals and deserve to be celebrated as minutely as possible. Zealous as he is in the prosecution of such studies, he will not deem that time thrown away, which is employed in extending the limits of a work dedicated to the defence of the State.—Ral. Register.

The Rail Road.—The Ship Richmond, Capt. Lenox, which arrived here yesterday; from Liverpool, has brought about three hundred tons of Iron, for the Portsmouth and Roanoke Rail Road.—Norfolk Beacon.

Federal Court.—The United States' Circuit Court for the District of North Carolina, commenced its Fall Term, in this city, on Tuesday last, and adjourned on the following day—present, Chief Justice Marshall and Judge Potter.

The only case of importance disposed of by the Court, was that of the United States vs. James Butler. The prisoner, who was a mail carrier on the route between Salisbury and Fayetteville, pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing a letter from the mail, and was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment.

Raleigh Star.

Pennsylvania Canals.—One of our Canal Commissioners, writing to a friend in this city, says,—"After mature examination, and full information on the subject, I am satisfied that by proper exertions our Canals will produce from 5 to $600,000 of Toll next year."

From the Sacket's Harbor Courier of Nov. 7.

GREAT FIRE AT KINGSTON, U. C.—We learn that on Friday night last, at about half past ten o'clock, a fire broke out in a small back shop in the most central and business part of Kingston. It immediately communicated to other buildings, consuming in all rising of twenty valuable buildings, and among them, we regret to learn, the Printing Office and Bookstore of Mr. Macfarlane, Editor of the Kingston Chronicle and Gazette. Value of property destroyed, from 80,000 to $100,000, upon which there were insurances to the amount of about $40,000.

POSTSCRIPT.

EDITOR'S CORRESPONDENCE.

Raleigh, Monday Night, Nov'r. 18.

My Dear Sir—I have only time before the closing of the mail to say to you, that both Houses of the Legislature were formed this afternoon,—in the Senate by the appointment of its old officers, and in the H. of C. also the officers of last year, except the Speaker, which situation was conferred upon William J. Alexander, of Mecklenburg, who was elected over Mr. Wyche, on the first balloting, viz: Alexander 67, Wyche 31, and 20 Blanks, besides a few scattering votes. The Blanks are supposed to be by Mr. Long's friends, who were desirous of ascertaining his strength without a nomination.

As yet I can form no correct idea of how matters and things will eventuate here, but will advise you as they transpire from time to time. If no question of discordency should arise, I entertain strong hopes of something favorable to us and the State generally.

A letter from another friend states that no other business was done.

[Officers of the Senate.—Wm. D. Moseley, Speaker; Samuel F. Patterson, Clerk, and Wm. J. Cowan, Assistant Clerk.

Of the House.—William J. Alexander, Speaker; Charles Manly, Clerk, and Edmund B. Freeman, Assistant.]

VALUABLE LAND

FOR SALE.

THE Subscriber being desirous to leave North Carolina for some State which will afford him greater facilities for the disposal of the fruits of his industry, offers for sale,

1500 Acres of LAND,

Situate in the County of Moore, on Governor's Creek. There is no Land in the State better adapted to the culture of Cotton, Corn, Wheat, or Tobacco, particularly the latter. It will be sold in lots to suit purchasers; and as I presume that no one will purchase without viewing the Land, I will always be ready to show the same to any person wishing to purchase

My Chloe, at all times divine,
Of late with fresh loveliness blooms,
Her eyes with more brilliancy shine,
Her cheek double lustre assumes.
"Sure the loves," I exclaimed, "by some wile—
You've bewitch'd to that face to elope:"
"Ah, no," she replied, with a smile,
"I but wash it with Hostler's Cream Soap."
